

Hi Tony,

Still catching all those monster fish I hope, it's the close season (Sept to March) here in France on all the premier category waters, naturally they're the ones that I prefer to fish! However, there are still plenty of big rivers and lakes that stay open all year long in category 2, so, providing the weather isn't too bad, (well I am getting old now!) I can get an hour or two in.

I will be in the UK for two weeks at the end of March, (the wife wants to see some of our 13 grandchildren and our GREAT granddaughter!), I will be bringing a telescopic rod in the hope that I can get a few hours in on a Linton water, any suggestions?

I see that your still having problems getting articles for the web site, I have enclosed these photo's together with a few words , don't know if you want to use anything that's been caught from outside of the LAS waters, but you can use it if you think it's any good. If you want to alter the wording, please feel free to do so.

Please give my regards to Chris and the rest of the lads;

Best wishes, Dan.

To all the old LAS Members that remember me, I'm still alive and kicking and catching the odd fish or two! Thought you might like to see a couple of my recent photos. A wild common caught from the private Abbey lake, see below, which is just two minutes from my house, the carp don't get to be too big, biggest I've caught was just over 15lb, but boy do they fight. The Abbey is one of my nearest neighbours, the owners are very kind to me, I'm the only one permitted to fish the lake! Best wishes and 'Tight Lines'.
Dan Nutt.
